Capital and accumulation, $650,000.

THIS Company is one of the oldest, and among the most prudently and successfully conducted in the country. The primary object in conducting its business has been to provide perfect security under all conceivable circumstances, for the payment of its losses under its policies, and to return to the insured the surplus at stated periods, and strict economy is observed.

Every insured person is a member of the company and shares in the profits of the business, and is subject to no liability or assessments beyond his premium.

The directors are required to be pecuniarily interested in the company, and they give it their personal attention; and bonds of sufficient security are given by its officers for the faithful performance of their duties.

Insurance may be effected for the benefit of the wife, which is secured to her by law beyond the reach of a husband's creditors; and creditors may insure the lives of debtors.

Highly Important to Farmers.
THE ONLY EXCLUSIVE FARMERS' INSURANCE COMPANY IN THE WEST.

THE MADISON MUTUAL,
LOCATED AT MADISON, WISCONSIN.

THIS Company continues to take risks upon Farm Property only, consisting of buildings of all kinds, (belonging to farmers,) household furniture, grain in barns, live stock, &c., from one to five years, at lower rates than most other responsible companies.

All losses promptly paid at the office as soon as proof is made thereon.

We believe it to be for the interest of the farmers to insure by themselves, their property being less hazardous than any other, consequently they will have no losses only their own of the same class, and all will be an equal footing.

Experience has shown that two-thirds, if not three-fourths of all the fires that occur are upon stores, taverns, mills, shops and such like property. In this company such property is rejected positively, by LETTERS THEIR AGENTS.

Farmers, look to your own interest, and insure in a Farmers' Company.

We have been doing business a little over three years, and we have not been obliged to assess our premiums, and for the last fourteen months we have not had a single dollar loss, though doing a large and prosperous business, which we believe to be without a parallel in the history of insurance.

The best of references given as to the responsibility of the company.

Highly Important to Farmers.
THE ONLY EXCLUSIVE FARMERS' INSURANCE COMPANY IN THE WEST.

THE MADISON MUTUAL,
LOCATED AT MADISON, WISCONSIN.

THIS Company continues to take risks upon Farm Property only, consisting of buildings of all kinds, (belonging to farmers), household furniture, grain in barns, live stock, &c., from one to five years, at lower rates than most other responsible companies.

All losses promptly paid at the office as soon as proof is made thereon.

We believe it to be for the interest of the farmer to insure by themselves, their property being less hazardous than if they insure with others, who will have no losses only your own of the same class, and all will be on an equal footing.

Experience has shown that two-thirds, if not three-fourths, of the losses upon stock, barns, live stock, and such like property, in this country all such property is rejected positively, by letting them alone.

Farmers look to your own interest, and insure in a Farmers' Company.

We have been doing business a little over three years, and we have not been obliged to assess our premium notes, and for the last four months we have not had a single dollar loss, though doing a large and prosperous business, which we believe to be without a parallel in the history of insurance.

The best of references given as to the responsibility of the company.

THE ARTIST'S TRIUMPH.
A TALE OF LONDON.
BY HORATIO ALGER, JR.

[Concluded.]
The delirium which attended the early stages of Mr. Elliot's indisposition continued for some days. At length consciousness returned.
"How long have I been sick," he enquired.
He was told.
"And what day is it now?"
"Wednesday, the fourteenth."
"And to-morrow the exhibition will take place. Oh, that I could have held out but two days longer. I would have asked no more. In that time I could have completed my painting, and it would have been entered in competition. Fate seems to be against me."
He groaned, and covered his face with his hands.
"But," said his wife soothingly, "remember, dear Arthur, that if fate seems against us, God is always with us. He orders everything in infinite wisdom."
"But," was the hardly reconciled answer, "his ways are difficult of comprehension. The wisdom is hidden, I cannot see it."
"Yet," said his wife full of hopeful confidence, "if we trust in him we shall not be deceived."
"But," said Arthur after a pause, "how shall we live in the meantime? I can do nothing now for our support, and much of your time is taken up in attendance upon me."
"I am richer than you think for," said Mary opening her purse and displaying the sum she had received from her visitor, much of which was untouched.
To his enquiries how she obtained it, she replied by unfolding the whole story, and indulged in the warmest encomiums on the generosity of Mr. Sedley. For the reader will remember that his name was inscribed on the card which he presented to her.
Arthur was interested in the recital, and expressed a wish to become acquainted with him. After a pause he enquired for the painting. "Let me look on it once more," said he, "perhaps I shall be better able to judge of its merits after a lapse of time."
Mary looked embarrassed. "You will excuse me," she said to her husband, "but Mr. Sedley expressed a wish to take it home with him for a few days, and I could not refuse. Doubtless he wished to exhibit it to some of his friends, and in that way it might find a purchaser."
Arthur acquiesced in this conclusion, and approved the course which Mary had adopted.

CHAPTER IV.
It was the morning of the exhibition—a clear bright morning of September, which seemed to combine all the balmy softness of summer, with none of the excessive heat. The sun shone down upon the numberless roofs of the great city, and found its way into the lanes and alleys, lighting them up for the hour with a brightness not their own. Through the little window—the only one—by which light was admitted into the room where the Elliotts lodged, the golden rays streamed in and lent their glory to the face of the sleeping artist, who had not yet awakened from the night's slumber.
There was a knock at the door. Mary opened it, and Mr. Sedley made his appearance.
"To-day," said he, "is the day of the exhibition. Will you accompany me? I have a free pass."
"But my husband," said she doubtfully. "I can not leave him."
"I have provided for that. I have brought a nurse with me who will take your place, and who will remain with you and nurse your husband. She is skillful and experienced, and you can safely trust him in her hands."
Here the sleeper awakened, and he was introduced by Mary to her husband. The latter thanked him warmly for the interest he had manifested in their welfare, and insisted on Mary's accompanying him to the exhibition.
"Though I shall have no part in it," he said, "I shall still wish to hear all about it."
Mary could no longer refuse, but dressing herself as neatly as her limited wardrobe would admit, prepared to accompany Mr. Sedley. To her surprise she found a private carriage waiting, with the usual accompaniments of a coachman and footman, of whom the latter very deferentially opened the door of the carriage, and waited for her to enter.
She began to entertain new ideas of her companion's consequence. The carriage dashed boldly through the narrow streets until it emerged from them into the more fashionable and crowded thoroughfares.
Mary found sufficient to amuse her in the splendid carriages, many of them surmounted by a coronet, all hastening in the same direction with themselves. There was an unusual number in the streets, a circumstance which was readily explained by the interest and curiosity which had been awakened by the exhibition.
At length they reached the magnificent hall in which it was to be held. The porter nodded deferentially to Mr. Sedley as he made way for him to pass.
And now they are in the room. What a magnificent collection! It represented the combined genius of the British artists, nearly all of whom had contributed to it. Mary, who, though no artist, had caught some of the spirit from her husband, gazed around her with speechless admiration.
"This is indeed grand," said she, at last; "it surpasses my utmost expectations."
"It is indeed," said Mr. Sedley; "England may well be proud of her artists. But see! Do you not recognize an old acquaintance?"
Mary looked, and to her unbounded surprise, beheld "The Transfiguration of Christ," her husband's painting, suspended from the wall. Mr. Sedley hastened to explain.
"I thought it a pity," he said, "that so fine a picture should not grace the exhibition; I accordingly hired an artist to give it the last touches, and had it brought here."
Mary thanked him with a glance full of gratitude. She looked again and beheld her husband's picture surrounded with eager admirers. Among them were the titled and the noble, and was with an emotion of pride that he heard the expressions of admiration which he elicited, and the eager questionings as to the author's name.
"I do not know," she heard one say, "it is, I believe some protégé of Sir Francis Sedley's—at all events he presented it."
"Sir Francis Sedley!" she inquired, pausing and looking into her companion's face.
"I cannot deny it," said he, smiling. "But come let us draw nearer the head of the hall—the prizes are to be announced."
They pressed forward, and the chairman of the committee arose, and after a few preliminary remarks, in which he commented on the difficulty he had experienced in the award, and congratulated himself on the splendid collection which had this day been gathered together, announced that the first prize of £500 was awarded to Arthur Elliot for his painting entitled "The Transfiguration."

Loud shouts rang through the hall.
Mary was oppressed by the fulness of her joy.

"Let me go into the air—I shall feel relieved," she said.
Sir Francis kindly accompanied her.
"O sir," said she, "it is to you that we are indebted for this great joy; Poor Arthur! how he will be delighted."
"Had you not better return to him and communicate it?" asked Sir Francis.
A hackney coach was called, and Mrs. Elliot soon arrived at her lodgings.
"O, Arthur," said she, "the prize! the prize!" It was all she could utter.
"Who has got it," asked the sick man eagerly, as he rose in his bed.
"It is yours! They have awarded it to you!"
She explained rapidly the circumstances with which the reader is already acquainted.
A proud flush passed over the faint cheek of the artist. "I am satisfied, I am happy!" said he.
The joy occasioned by this success acted most beneficially on the sunken energies of the sick artist. Before many weeks he recovered fully, so as to resume his art. His prize painting was sold for a great sum to an English nobleman, who was bent on adding it to his collection.
At present there is a beautiful cottage situated a few miles from London, in the suburbs. There is a pleasant garden connected with it, and it seems the abode of peace and happiness. This is the residence of the eminent artist, Arthur Elliot and his happy wife. There are few households to whom it has fallen to enjoy such unalloyed happiness as theirs. They have not forgotten the author of their prosperity. In the study of Sir Francis Sedley there hangs a beautiful picture—a gem of art—on the back of which is traced in delicate characters, "Arthur Elliot to his benefactor."

A WOMAN APPARENTLY WHITE SURRENDERED TO SLAVERY.—FOURTH DISTRICT COURT.—A rather singular case came before this court yesterday. Some days since a woman named Pelagie was arrested as a fugitive slave, who had lived for more than twelve years in this city as a free woman. She was so nearly white that few could detect any traces of her African descent. She was arrested at the instance of a man named Raby, who claimed her as belonging to an estate of which he is heir at law. She was conveyed to the first district guard house for safe keeping, and while there she stated to acting recorder Fillet that she was free, had never belonged to Raby, and had been in the full and unquestionable enjoyment of her freedom in this city for the above mentioned period. She also stated that she had a home furnished, which she was in the habit of letting out in rooms. About this time a lawyer appeared before the recorder and stated that the woman was born in slavery, and now belonged to a man in Mississippi. He produced a bill of sale which corroborated his assertion, and which stated that in a certain number of years she was to be set free. This being a sort of triangular fight, the woman, Raby, and the lawyer forming the corners, the recorder found himself somewhat at a loss what to do, and as Raby pressed his claim the recorder advised him to apply to one of the district courts. Accordingly he applied to the fourth district court and took a rule on acting recorder Fillet to show cause why a mandamus should not be issued compelling him to deliver up the woman. Mr. Fillet appeared before the court and stated the circumstances mentioned. Judge Reynolds decided, however, that Raby was the owner of the woman, and ordered the rule to be made absolute, and a writ of mandamus to be issued upon acting recorder Fillet for the surrender of the slave. The issuing of the writ, however, was rendered unnecessary by the declaration of Mr. Fillet that the order of the court was sufficient, and that he would at once order the woman's release. Time, however, has been given to her to prove her freedom, and also to the lawyer to prove the validity of the bill of sale.—N. O. Picayune, Sept. 6.

IRISH KNOW-NOTHING LODGE.—In reference to the formation of a Know-Nothing lodge in New-York, by protest at Irishmen, the Pilot of last week says:
"The protestant Irish have Orange or Know-Nothing lodges in all our large cities. The rules, regulations and oaths of the Know-Nothing are principally made up from those of the Orange lodges."
The Potosi Republican has not yet raised the name of Otis Hoyt for congress, and preserves an ominous silence in regard to the proceedings of the late democratic congressional convention at Mineral Point. Evidently disgusted with democracy in its present shape, it yet hesitates to quit a party which has been so long in power, and has for so long a time had the distribution of the leaves and fishes. It therefore, to make amends for its coldness towards the democratic nominee, takes to abusing the republican party with new vigor. We assure the editor that the republican party "cherishes no sectional feeling of hostility towards the south" whatever. It is the party of the union, as opposed to those who are attempting to denationalize freedom, who maintain that slavery is the natural condition of man, and who are responsible for the present slavery agitation.—Madison Journal.

COUNTERFEITER ARRESTED.—An expert counterfeiter was lately arrested at Syracuse, and placed for altering bills on sixteen different banks found in his carpet bag. The Standard says:
"Among the plates were found tens on the Bank of Salina; fives on the Merchants' Bank of Syracuse; tens on the Farmers' Bank of Lansingburg; and twenties on the Southport Bank, Mass., Mechanics' and Manufacturers' Bank, Providence, R. I., Bank of Saratoga County, Hamilton Bank, Madison county, Weybosset Bank, R. I., and Smithfield Union Bank, R. I. Besides these, there were several separate dies for altering to fives, tens and twenties. The plates were all engraved in the best style of the art, and everything about them showed the marks of a skillful workman. About $600 in counterfeit bills were also found in his possession,—among them, tens on the Farmers' Bank of Lansingburg, tens on the Lewis County Bank, and tens on the Ocean Bank."

The columns of the Washington Union are filled up with defenses of the administration, toyism of officials, and denunciations of the Know-Nothing. It is a mystery to us "outsiders" how the editor of the Union continues to get so much knowledge respecting the numbers, character, principles and leaders of the Know-Nothing. There must be a different kind of them in and about Washington from what they are hereabouts, for they are so close mouthed in their operations, if, indeed, they actually exist among us at all, that all we can learn about them or their movements, is just nothing at all.

NECESSARY.—ADVANCE IN THE PRICE OF NEWSPAPERS.—The proprietors of four daily journals in Cincinnati, the Commercial, Times, Enquirer, and Columbian, have resolved to increase the price of their subscription from ten to twelve cents per week. This change they say is absolutely indispensable to meet the advanced cost of labor, paper, &c.

SUMMARY WORK.—A public meeting of the citizens of Huntsville, Texas, held on the 29th ult., resolved that convicts who had served out their time in the penitentiary, or who may hereafter do so, shall not remain in that town. A standing committee was appointed to notify all such persons, and in default of their leaving the place in 24 hours after such notice to leave them.

"CONSTITUTIONAL CONSCIENCE."—The Memphis Eagle and Enquirer does not understand how it is that President Pierce vetoed the bill donating a portion of the public domain to the benefit of the indigent insane persons of the United States, on the ground of constitutional obstacles, and yet signed the bill donating the navy yard property at Memphis, upon which the government has spent thousands of dollars, and that city.

ROCK COUNTY REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

The electors of Rock county who are determined to support no man for office who is not positively and fully committed to the support of the principles announced in the "Republican Platform" adopted at Madison on the 13th of July last, and whose personal character, political associations and private conduct, do not afford a guarantee that he is reliable, are invited to meet in their respective townships or wards at the place of holding the last township or ward election, on Tuesday, 10th day of October next, at 2 o'clock P. M., for the purpose of effecting a thorough organization of the Republican party in their towns or wards, and of appointing delegates to a county convention hereby called at the Court House in Janesville, on THURSDAY, the 12th day of October next, at 2 o'clock P. 17th SENATORIAL DISTRICT CONVENTION.

At the same time and place above designated in the respective towns and wards for meetings, to choose delegates to the county convention, the Republican electors of the wards of the city of Janesville, and of the towns in this county comprised in the 17th senatorial district, are requested to select an equal number of delegates to which they are entitled under the above appointment in the county convention, to represent them in a senatorial convention hereby called at the Court House in Janesville, on THURSDAY the 12th day of October next at 11 o'clock, A. M., to nominate a candidate for senator.

By order of the County Committee.

MR. DOUGLAS AT GENEVA.—Douglas undertook to "vindicate himself" again, at Geneva, Ill., last Wednesday, but with no better success than he has met at other places. The number that assembled to hear him was from 1,500 to 2,000, fifty of whom are reported to have been Nebraska men. He was listened to quietly until he began to make statements for which proof was requested by the audience, and in his inability to produce such proof, he began, as on former occasions, to lose his temper and grow insolent. After some interruption, however, he was enabled to conclude his speech, which occupied about two hours' time. The meeting then appointed a chairman and secretary, and Ichabod Coddling was called upon the stand to make a reply. Douglas having no relish for this immediately withdrew, taking with him twenty-five of his friends, a portion of whom afterwards returned. After this, resolutions were passed with but one dissenting voice, against the provisions of the Nebraska bill repealing the compromise of 1820, condemning the members of congress who voted for the bill, and declaring that Douglas was unworthy to speak to a free people. We trust that nothing like an enforcement of the idea contained in the last resolution will take place, as Douglas at present seems to be materially aiding the anti-Nebraska movement.

THE WHITEWATER GAZETTE.—This paper has recently changed hands, abandoned its neutrality in politics and ardently espoused the republican cause. It gives promise of being a useful and efficient worker in that cause.

Farwell & Bro.'s Soda Fountain is in fine order, and ready to give its cooling draughts during the Indian summer.

Owing to the early hour we go to press, we are unable to give an account of Capt. Geo. S. Dodge's lecture, before the Collegiate Institute, in this issue. To-morrow, we shall pay him our respects.

NEW YORK WHIG NOMINATIONS.—The whigs of New-York held their state convention at Syracuse, on Wednesday, and nominated with great unanimity, the following ticket: for Governor, Myron H. Clark, of Ontario; Lt. Governor, A. J. Raymond, of N. Y.; Canal Com., H. Fitzhugh, of Oswego; State Prison Insp., N. Browne, of Delaware. Very emphatic and decided anti-Nebraska resolutions were adopted, and the convention adjourned, as it met and acted, in entire harmony.

STATE TAXES.—The state board of equalization were in session at the capitol, yesterday and to day, and have finally completed their labors, by fixing the state tax at 3 1/2-100 mills on the dollar, but owing to the increase of taxable property the diminished ratio will furnish in the aggregate a much larger amount than last year.—Madison Argus.

STRAY CATTLE.—Strayed or stolen from the yard of the Janesville Stage House, on the night of Tuesday, Sept. 19th, a PAIR OF OXEN. They are of large size, bright brindle color, and one has white hind feet and white end of the tail. Whoever will return them to me in the town of Magnolia, or give information where they may be found, shall be satisfactorily rewarded.
Magnolia, Rock co., Sept. 21st, 1854. ALMOND LEWIS.

KIDNAPERS ESCAPED.—The three hyenas who attempted to kidnap and murder a colored man at Chicago, and had been indicted for the deed, have escaped by a trick of the U. S. Dist. Atty. Hoyne and Sheriff Bradley. They got out a writ of habeas corpus, from chief justice Treat, at Springfield, commanding the sheriff to bring the prisoners before him—200 miles distant—in 36 hours, and served it on the witnesses and attorneys of the colored man were absent, and, of course, were taken beyond the reach of justice.

The Buffalo Republic responds to a suggestion of the Albany Atlas, that the former might "see" something favorable to freedom in the liberty accorded by congress to Kansas and Nebraska to accept or reject slavery—as follows:
"The Republic sees nothing of the kind. It sees that the repeal of the Missouri restriction opened the territories of Kansas and Nebraska to slavery, and that the measure has awakened a feeling in the free states which may, through the efficient aid of emigrant societies, result, auspiciously to the cause of freedom. It sees nothing of popular sovereignty in the Nebraska law, nor anything different from other territorial acts, save a wanton violation of a solemn compact which, in its judgment, should have met the unqualified disapprobation of the democratic state convention, whatever opinions may have prevailed there in regard to the restoration of the Missouri clause."

NEW FREIGHT DEPOT.—The new freight depot which the Central railroad company are putting up on Ohio street, between Michigan and Chicago streets, will be the largest building of the kind in the United States, and perhaps in the world. It fronts 600 feet on Ohio street and 420 feet on the dock, with a depth at the west end of 175 and at the east end of 163 feet, covering two acres of ground. It is a substantial brick structure, the roof being supported by nine pillars. Opening upon the dock are eleven large doors for the receipt and transmission of freight and on Ohio street thirteen, where also is the main entrance into which lead three railway tracks. One track runs directly through the building to the dock.—Buffalo Democracy.

HORRIBLE!—Mrs. Fitzgerald, an industrious, reputable widow, in New York, who earned a precarious living by folding books, when she could obtain employment, became discouraged and committed suicide by taking laudanum, having first administered a fatal dose to her son, a boy eight years old.

GRANT COUNTY LANDS FOR 75 CENTS AN ACRE.—The Grant County Herald calls attention to the fact that the government lands in that county, having been 19 years in market, can be had for 75 cents per acre, under the recent graduation bill. Applications must be made personally at the office in Mineral Point.

REQUISITION FOR THE KIDNAPERS.—We understand that measures have been taken to get a requisition upon the governor of Missouri for the kidnapers, who were released by justice Treat last Thursday. When they get into our county jail again, they will not escape so easily as they have done.—Chicago Tribune, Saturday.

STOCK GOING UP.—One news item in our columns this morning, is that several brokers in New York city have "failed" because of a sudden "rise" in Erie railroad stock. Wall street is a strange place. Whether stocks rise or fall, somebody must break.

SOUTHERN WISCONSIN RAILWAY.—E. D. Clinton writes that on Monday he closed his work at Decatur, Green county, Wis., with a good bona-fide subscription to the road of four hundred and eighty-five thousand nine hundred dollars.—Wisconsin.

FARMERS' & MILLERS' BANK.—This institution has changed hands—the original proprietors having sold out to some of our leading business men. Yesterday the new directors elected Edward D. Holton, president, John Lockwood, vice-president, and H. H. Camp, cashier. Mr. Camp held the same office under the former direction.—Wis.

VERMONT.—The Vermont Journal has a classification of the senate and house of representatives, which gives the whigs 21 senators, the free soilers 7, and the democrats 2. Of the 225 representatives known to have been chosen, 126 are whigs, 48 free soilers, and 51 democrats.

New England Mutual Life Ins.,

Of Boston, Mass., Chartered in 1843, Capital and accumulation, $650,000. THIS Company is one of the oldest, and among the most prudently and successfully conducted in the country. The primary object in conducting its business has been to provide security under all conceivable circumstances, for the payment of its losses under its policies, and to return to the insured the surplus at stated periods, and strict economy is observed.

Every insured person is a member of the company and shares in the profits of the business, and is subject to no liability or assessments beyond his premium. The directors are required to be personally interested in the company, and they give to their personal attention; and hands of sufficient security are given by its officers for the faithful performance of their duties. Policies are secured to her by law beyond the reach of a husband's creditors; and creditors may insure the lives of debtors.

Highly Important to Farmers.

THE ONLY EXCLUSIVE FARMERS' INSURANCE COMPANY IN THE WEST. THE MADISON MUTUAL, LOCATED AT MADISON, WISCONSIN.

THIS Company continues to take risks upon 1. Farm Property, consisting of buildings of all kinds, (belonging to farmers,) household furniture, grain in barns, live stock, &c., from the first of May, at low rates than most other responsible companies. All losses promptly paid at the office as soon as proof is made thereon.

We believe it to be for the interest of the farmers to insure by themselves, their property being less insured by others than any other, consequently you will have no losses only your own of the same class, and all will be on an equal footing.

Experience has shown that two-thirds of the losses of all the firsts that occur are upon stoves, barns, mills, shops and such like property. In this company all such property is rejected positively, by letter, from the moment of its being insured.

Farmers, look to your own interest, and insure in a Farmers' Company.

We have been doing business a little over three years, and we have not been charged to make our premium notes, and for the last fourteen months we have not had a single dollar loss, though doing a large and prosperous business, which we believe to be without a parallel in the history of insurance.

variation or improvement—to the satisfaction undoubt-

THE ARTIST'S TRIUMPH.
A TALE OF LONDON.
BY HORATIO ALGER, JR.

The delirium which attended the early stages of Mr. Elliot's indisposition continued for some days. At length consciousness returned.
"How long have I been sick," he enquired.
He was told.
"And what day is it now?"
"Wednesday, the fourteenth."
"And to-morrow the exhibition will take place. Oh, that I could have held out but two days longer. I would have completed my painting, and it would have been entered in competition. Fate seems to be against me."
He groaned, and covered his face with his hands.

"But," said his wife soothingly, "remember, dear Arthur, that if fate seems against us, God is always with us. He orders everything in infinite wisdom."
"But," was the hardly reconciled answer, "his ways are difficult of comprehension. The wisdom is hidden, I cannot see it."
"Yet," said his wife with full of hopeful confidence, "if we trust in him we shall not be deceived."
"But," said Arthur after a pause, "how shall we live in the meantime? I can do nothing now for our support, and much of your time is taken up in attendance upon me."
"I am richer than you think for," said Mary opening her purse and displaying the sum she had received from her visitor, much of which was untouched.

To his enquiries how she obtained it, she replied by unfolding the whole story, and indulged in the warmest encomiums on the generosity of Mr. Sedley, for the reader will remember that his name was inscribed on the card which he presented to her.

Arthur was interested in the recital, and expressed a wish to become acquainted with him. After a pause he enquired for the painting. "Let me look on it once more," said he, "perhaps I shall be better able to judge of its merits after a lapse of time."

Mary looked embarrassed. "You will excuse me," she said to her husband, "but Mr. Sedley expressed a wish to take it home with him for a few days, and I could not refuse. Doubtless he wished to exhibit it to some of his friends, and in that way it might find a purchaser."

Arthur acquiesced in this conclusion, and approved the course which Mary had adopted.

CHAPTER IV.
It was the morning of the exhibition—a clear bright morning of September, which seemed to combine all the balmy softness of summer, with none of the excessive heat. The sun shone down upon the numberless roofs of the great city, and found its way into the lanes and alleys, lighting them up for the hour with a brightness not their own. Through the little window—the only one—by which light was admitted into the room where the Elliot's lodged, the golden rays streamed in and lent their glory to the face of the sleeping artist, who had not yet awakened from the night's slumber.

There was a knock at the door. Mary opened it, and Mr. Sedley made his appearance. "To-day," said he, "is the day of the exhibition. Will you accompany me? I have a free pass."

"But my husband," said she doubtfully. "I can not leave him."

"I have provided for that. I have brought a nurse with me who will take your place, and who will remain with you and nurse your husband. She is skillful and experienced, and you can safely trust him in her hands."

Here the sleeper awakened, and he was introduced by Mary to her husband. The latter thanked him warmly for the interest he had manifested in their welfare, and insisted on Mary's accompanying him to the exhibition.

"I shall still wish to hear all about it," he said.
"I shall no longer refuse, but dressing herself as neatly as her limited wardrobe would admit, prepared to accompany Mr. Sedley. To her surprise she found a private carriage waiting, with the usual accompaniments of a coachman and footman, of whom the latter very deferentially opened the door of the carriage, and waited for her to enter.

She began to entertain new ideas of her companion's consequence. The carriage dashed boldly through the narrow streets until it emerged from them into the more fashionable and crowded thoroughfares.

Mary found sufficient to amuse her in the splendid carriages, many of them surmounted by a coronet, all hastening in the same direction with themselves. There was an unusual number in the streets, a circumstance which was readily explained by the interest and curiosity which had been awakened by the exhibition.

At length they reached the magnificent hall in which it was to be held. The porter nodded deferentially to Mr. Sedley as he made way for him to pass.

And now they are in the room. What a magnificent collection! It represented the combined genius of the British artists, nearly all of whom had contributed to it. Mary, who, though no artist, had caught some of the spirit from her husband, gazed around her with speechless admiration.

"This is indeed grand," said she, at last; "it surpasses my utmost expectations."
"It is indeed," said Mr. Sedley; "England may well be proud of her artists. But see! Do you not recognize an old acquaintance?"

Mary looked, and to her unbounded surprise, beheld "The Transfiguration of Christ," her husband's painting, suspended from the wall. Mr. Sedley hastened to explain.

"I thought it a pity," he said, "that so fine a picture should not grace the exhibition; I accordingly hired an artist to give it the last touches, and had it brought here."

Mary thanked him with a glance full of gratitude. She looked again and beheld her husband's picture surrounded with eager admirers. Among them were the titled and the noble, and with an emotion of pride that she heard the expressions of admiration which it elicited, and the eager questionings as to the author's name.

"I do not know," she heard one say, "it is, I believe some protégé of Sir Francis Sedley's—at all events he presented it."
"Sir Francis Sedley?" she inquired, pausing and looking into her companion's face.

"I cannot deny it," said he, smiling. "But come let us draw nearer the head of the hall—the prizes are to be announced."

They pressed forward, and the chairman of the committee arose, and after a few preliminary remarks, in which he commented on the difficulty he had experienced in the award, and congratulated himself on the splendid collection which had this day been gathered together, announced that the first prize of £500 was awarded to Arthur Elliot for his painting entitled "The Transfiguration."

Loud shouts rang through the hall.
Mary was oppressed by the fullness of her joy.

"Let me go into the air—I shall feel relieved," she said.
Sir Francis kindly accompanied her.
"O Sir," said she, "it is to you that we are indebted for this great joy; Poor Arthur! how he will be delighted."
"Had you not better return to him and communicate it?" asked Sir Francis.
A hackney coach was called, and Mrs. Elliot soon arrived at her lodgings.
"O, Arthur," said she, "the prize! the prize! It was all she could utter."
"Who has got it?" asked the sick man eagerly, as he rose in his bed.
"It is yours! They have awarded it to you!"
She explained rapidly the circumstances with which the reader is already acquainted.
A proud flush passed over the faint cheek of the artist. "I am satisfied, I am happy!" said he.

The joy occasioned by this success acted most beneficially on the sunken energies of the sick artist. Before many weeks he recovered fully, so as to resume his art. His prize painting was sold for a great sum to an English nobleman, who was bent on adding it to his collection.
At present there is a beautiful cottage situated a few miles from London, in the suburbs. There is a pleasant garden connected with it, and it seems the abode of peace and happiness. This is the residence of the eminent artist, Arthur Elliot and his happy wife. There are few households to whom it has fallen to enjoy such unalloyed happiness as theirs. They have not forgotten the author of their prosperity. In the study of Sir Francis Sedley there hangs a beautiful picture—a gem of art—on the back of which is traced in delicate characters, "Arthur Elliot to his benefactor."

A WOMAN APPARENTLY WHITE SURRENDERED TO SLAVERY.—FOURTH DISTRICT COURT.—A rather singular case came before this court yesterday. Some days since a woman named Felag was arrested as a fugitive slave, who had lived for more than twelve years in this city as a free woman. She was so nearly white that few could detect any traces of her African descent. She was arrested at the instance of a man named Raby, who claimed her as belonging to an estate of which he is heir at law. She was conveyed to the first district guard house for safe keeping, and while there she stated to acting recorder Filleul that she was free, had never belonged to Raby, and had been in the full and unquestionable enjoyment of her freedom in this city for the above mentioned period. She also stated that she had a house furnished, which she was in the habit of letting out in rooms. About this time a lawyer appeared before the recorder, and stated that the person named Raby, and the lawyer forming some of the corners, the recorder found himself somewhat at a loss what to do, and as Raby pressed his claim the recorder advised him to apply to one of the district courts. Accordingly he applied to the fourth district court and took a rule on acting recorder Filleul to show cause why a mandamus should not be issued compelling him to deliver up the woman. Mr. Filleul appeared before the court and stated the circumstances mentioned. Judge Reynolds decided, however, that Raby was the owner of the woman, and ordered the rule to be made absolute, and a writ of mandamus to be issued upon acting recorder Filleul for the surrender of the slave. The issuing of the writ, however, was rendered unnecessary by the declaration of Mr. Filleul that the order of the court was sufficient, and that he would at once order the woman's release. Time, however, has been given to her to prove her freedom, and also to the lawyer to prove the validity of the bill of sale.—N. O. Picayune, Sept. 6.

IRISH KNOW-NOTHING LODGE.—In reference to the formation of a Know-Nothing lodge in New-York, by protest at Irishmen, the Pilot of last week says:
"The protestant Irish have Orange or Know-Nothing lodges in all our large cities. The rules, regulations and oaths of the Know-Notthings are principally made up from those of the Orange lodges."

The Potomac Republican has not yet raised the name of Otis Hoyt for congress, and preserves an ominous silence in regard to the proceedings of the late democratic congressional convention at Mineral Point. Evidently disgusted with democracy in its present shape, it yet hesitates to quit a party which has been so long in power, and has for so long a time had the distribution of the loaves and fishes. It therefore, to make amends for its coldness towards the democratic nominee, takes to abusing the republican party with new vigor. It assures the editor that the republican party "cherishes no sectional feeling of hostility towards the south" whatever. It is the party of the union, as opposed to those who are attempting to denationalize freedom, who maintain that slavery is the natural condition of man, and who are responsible for the present slavery agitation.—Madison Journal.

COUNTERFEITER ARRESTED.—An expert counterfeiter was lately arrested at Syracuse, and plates for altering bills on sixteen different banks found in his carpet bag. The Standard says:
Among the plates were found tens on the Bank of Salina; fives on the Merchants' Bank of Syracuse; tens on the Farmers' Bank of Lansingburg; and twenties on the Southport Bank, and plates on the Bank of Bath, Watford Bank, Mass., Mechanics' and Manufacturer's Bank, Providence, R. I., Bank of Saratoga County, Hamilton Bank, Madison county, Weybosset Bank, R. I., and Smithfield Union Bank, R. I. Besides these, there were several separate dies for altering to fives, tens and twenties.

The plates were all engraved in the best style of the art, and everything about them showed the marks of a skillful workman. About $600 in counterfeit bills were also found in his possession,—among them, tens on the Farmers' Bank of Lansingburg, tens on the Lewis County Bank, and tens on the Ocean Bank.

The columns of the Washington Union are filled up with defenses of the administration, toadyism of officials, and denunciations of the Know-Notthings. It is a mystery to us "outsiders" how the editor of the Union continues to get so much knowledge respecting the numbers, character, principles and leaders of the Know-Notthings. There must be a different kind of them in and about Washington from what they are hereabouts, for they are so close mouthed in their operations, if, indeed, they actually exist among us at all, that all we can learn about them or their movements, is just nothing at all.

NECESSARY.—ADVANCE IN THE PRICE OF NEWSPAPERS.—The proprietors of four daily journals in Cincinnati, the Commercial, Times, Enquirer, and Columbian, have resolved to increase the price of their subscription from ten to twelve cents per week. This change they say is absolutely indispensable to meet the advanced cost of labor, paper, &c.

ROCK COUNTY REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

The electors of Rock county who are determined to support no man for office who is not positively and fully committed to the support of the principles announced in the "Republican Platform" adopted at Madison on the 13th of July last, and whose personal character, political associations and private conduct, do not afford a guarantee that he is reliable, are invited to meet in their respective townships or wards at the place of holding the last township or ward election, on Tuesday, 16th day of October next, at 2 o'clock P. M. for the purpose of effecting a thorough organization of the Republican party in their townships or wards, and of appointing delegates to a county convention hereby called at the Court House in Janesville, on THURSDAY, the 12th day of October next, at 2 o'clock P. 17th SENATORIAL DISTRICT CONVENTION.

At the same time and place above designated in the respective towns and wards for meetings, to choose delegates to the county convention, the Republican electors of the wards of the city of Janesville, and of the towns in this county comprised in the 17th senatorial district, are requested to select an equal number of delegates to which they are entitled under the above appointment in the county convention, to represent them in a senatorial convention hereby called at the Court House in Janesville, on THURSDAY the 12th day of October next at 11 o'clock A. M., to nominate a candidate for senator.

By order of the County Committee.

MR. DOUGLAS AT GENEVA.—Douglas undertook to "vindicate himself" again, at Geneva, Ill., last Wednesday, but with no better success than he has met at other places. The number that assembled to hear him was from 1,500 to 2,000, fifty of whom are reported to have been Nebraska men. He was listened to quietly until he began to make statements for which proof was requested by the audience, and in his inability to produce such proof, he began, as on former occasions, to lose his temper and grow insolent. After some interruption, however, he was enabled to conclude his speech, which occupied about two hours' time. The meeting then appointed a chairman and secretary, and Ichabod Coddling was called upon the stand to make a reply. Douglas having no relish for this immediately withdrew, taking with him twenty-five of his friends, a portion of whom afterwards returned. After this, resolutions were passed with but one dissenting voice, against the provisions of the Nebraska bill repealing the compromise of 1820, condemning the members of congress who voted for the bill, and declaring that Douglas was unworthy to speak to a free people. We trust that nothing like an enforcement of the idea contained in the last resolution will take place, as Douglas at present seems to be materially aiding the anti-Nebraska movement.

THE WHITEWATER GAZETTE.—This paper has recently changed hands, abandoned its neutrality in politics and ardently espoused the republican cause. It gives promise of being a useful and efficient worker in that cause.

Farwell & Bro.'s Soda Fountain is in fine order, and ready to give its cooling draughts during the Indian summer.

Owing to the early hour we go to press, we are unable to give an account of Capt. Geo. S. Dodge's lecture, before the Collegiate Institute, in this issue. To-morrow, we shall pay him our respects.

NEW YORK WHIG NOMINATIONS.—The whigs of New-York held their state convention at Syracuse, on Wednesday, and nominated with great unanimity, the following ticket: For Governor, Myron H. Clark, of Ontario; Lt. Governor, A. J. Raymond, of N. Y.; Canal Comr., H. Fitzhugh, of Oswego; State Prison Insp., N. Browne, of Delaware. Very emphatic and decided anti-Nebraska resolutions were adopted, and the convention adjourned, as it met and acted, in entire harmony.

STATE TAXES.—The state board of equalization were in session at the capitol, yesterday, and to day, and have finally settled their labors, by fixing the state tax at 3 1/2-100 mills on the dollar. The tax last year was 6 mills on the dollar, but owing to the increase of taxable property the diminished ratio will furnish in the aggregate a much larger amount than last year.—Madison Argus.

SUMMARY WORK.—A public meeting of the citizens of Hunterville, Texas, held on the 29th ult., resolved that convicts who had served out their time in the penitentiary, or who may hereafter do so, shall not remain in that town. A standing committee was appointed to notify all such persons, and in default of their leaving the place in 24 hours after such notice to—lynch them.

"CONSTITUTIONAL CONSCIENCE."—The Memphis Eagle and Enquirer does not understand how it is that President Pierce vetoed the bill donating a portion of the public domain for the benefit of the indigent insane persons of the United States, on the ground of constitutional obstacles, and yet signed the bill donating the navy yard property at Memphis, upon which the government has spent thousands of dollars, to that city.

KIDNAPERS ESCAPED.—The three hyenas who attempted to kidnap and murder a colored man at Chicago, and had been indicted for the deed, have escaped by a trick of the U. S. Dist. Atty. Hoyne and Sheriff Bradley. They got out a writ of habeas corpus, from chief justice Treat, at Springfield, commanding the sheriff to bring the prisoners before him—200 miles distant—in 36 hours, and served it when the witnesses and attorneys of the colored man were absent, and, of course, were taken beyond the reach of justice.

The Buffalo Republic responds to a suggestion of the Albany Adas, that the former might "sco" something favorable to freedom in the liberty accorded by congress to Kansas and Nebraska to accept or reject slavery—as follows:
"The Republic sees nothing of the kind. It sees that the repeal of the Missouri restriction opened the territories of Kansas and Nebraska to slavery, and that the measure has awakened a feeling in the free states which may, through the efficient aid of emigrant societies, result auspiciously to the cause of freedom. It sees nothing of popular sovereignty in the Nebraska law, nor anything different from other territorial acts, save a wanton violation of a solemn compact which, in its judgment, should have met the unqualified disapprobation of the democratic state convention, whatever opinions may have prevailed there in regard to the restoration of the Missouri clause."

NEW FREIGHT DEPOT.—The new freight depot which the Central railroad company are putting up on Ohio street, between Michigan and Chicago streets, will be the largest building of the kind in the United States, and perhaps in the world. It fronts 600 feet on Ohio street and 420 feet on the dock, with a depth at the west end of 175 and at the east end of 168 feet, covering two acres of ground. It is a substantial brick structure, the roof being supported by nine pillars. Opening upon the dock are eleven large doors for the receipt and transmission of freight and on Ohio street thirteen, where also is the main entrance into which lead three railway tracks. One track runs directly through the building to the dock.—Buffalo Democracy.

HORRIBLE!—Mrs. Fitzgerald, an industrious, reputable widow in New York, who earned a precarious living by folding books, when she could obtain employment, became discouraged and committed suicide by taking laudanum, having first administered a fatal dose to her son, a boy eight years old.

GRANT COUNTY LANDS FOR 75 CENTS AN ACRE.—The Grant County Herald calls attention to the fact that the government lands in that county, having been 10 years in market, can be had for 75 cents per acre, under the recent gradation bill. Applications must be made personally at the office in Mineral Point.

REQUISITION FOR THE KIDNAPERS.—We understand that measures have been taken to get a requisition upon the governor of Missouri for the kidnapers, who were released by justice Treat last Thursday. When they get into our county jail again, they will not escape so easily as they have done.—Chicago Tribune, Saturday.

STOCK GOING UP.—One news item in our columns this morning, is that several brokers in New York city have "failed" because of a sudden "rise" in Erie railroad stock. Wall street is a strange place. Whether stocks rise or fall, somebody must break.

SOUTHERN WISCONSIN RAILWAY.—E. D. Clinton writes that on Monday he closed his work at Decatur, Green county, Wis., with a good bona-fide subscription to the road of four hundred and eighty-five thousand nine hundred dollars.—Wisconsin.

FARMERS' & MILLERS' BANK.—This institution has changed hands—the original proprietors having sold out to some of our leading business men. Yesterday the new directors elected Edward D. Holton, president, John Lockwood, vice-president, and H. H. Camp, cashier. Mr. Camp held the same office under the former direction.—Wis.

VERMONT.—The Vermont Journal has a classification of the senate and house of representatives, which gives the whigs 21 senators, the free soilers 7, and the democrats 2. Of the 225 representatives known to have been chosen, 126 are whigs, 48 free soilers, and 51 democrats.

MR. CHARLES AUSTIN, the celebrated Reel maker has just completed his new Organ Reel, upon which he has labored for the last five years and expended more than $1,000. This Reel is different from all others in its composition, being much larger and having more power. It is intended for Church and Parlor Organs; as manufactured by Messrs. Austin & Co. These Organs have an improved Organ, and are sold at a low price. The price will range from $175 to $300, depending upon the finish of the case. To churches in want of an instrument of that value we would say that they have more power than any common Organ costing $200

GREAT SALE OF REAL ESTATE!
Rare Chance for Investment!
600 Village Lots!
THE undersigned offers at private sale SIX HUNDRED VILLAGE LOTS, situated in "Hickory Glen" and "Piney & Shaw's" addition to Janesville, and located in the immediate vicinity of the Milwaukee and Mississippi railroad depot, in the city of Janesville.
The above property is but a short distance from the present business center of the thriving city of Janesville, and to towns which are rapidly growing, and in which the railroad is in operation and projected, the business of the city is fast finding its way.
It is unnecessary to speak of the peculiar advantages of an investment in property so centrally located in the largest inland city in the State of Wisconsin—a city as widely known for its thrift and business prosperity, possessing extensive water-power and surrounded by the best farming country in the world—no every one of all conversant with the progress of western cities will see at once these advantages.
The above property is offered at very low rates, and on the most favorable terms, particularly to those who wish to make immediate improvements on purchases.
Also, 1,000 Acres of the Best Improved Farming Lands, situated within a few miles of the city, which will be sold in lots to suit purchasers, from 40 to 800 acres.
For particulars enquire of the undersigned at Pixley & Kimball's Hardware Store, or at Thomas & J. R. PRASE, Street Commissioners of said Ward. Janesville July 30, 1854. 4d

NEW GOODS!
$15,000 Worth of
BOOTS AND SHOES
JUST RECEIVED AT THE
Wisconsin Boot & Shoe Store.
I AM now receiving one of the largest and finest stocks of Boots and Shoes that I have ever before brought to Janesville, and what is better than all the rest, I can sell them at lower prices than I have ever sold before, notwithstanding the great advance in the Eastern Market. My assortment of Ladies Fine Shoes.
In particular, I have no hesitation in saying, cannot be equaled in the State, both for style and durability, being made to order, and in such a manner that I can warrant every article I sell, with the understanding that at all times, that if they do not come up to the warrant, they shall be made free of charge.
GENTLEMEN'S WEAR.
In this line I know beyond a doubt, that I can show you a better class of goods, at better prices, by twenty five per cent, than can be found at any of the shoe shops or Dry Goods stores about town. I want it distinctly understood that I make the BOOT and SHOE TRADE my WHOLE STUDY, and that I have a large stock of more and know more about the trade, than the whole pile of petty dealers put together. And I know also that I can make it an object for Every Farmer in Rock County, to get his shoes and boots made at Janesville, for their Boots and Shoes of me, for the more I sell the smaller profits I can sell at.
Manufacturing.
I want to say a few words to you in regard to my Manufacturing Department, to wit: That I am now engaged more extensively in the manufacturing business, and probably am selling more custom work than all the shops about town put together. I have for these purposes, that I use better Stock, being entirely of Eastern tanning, which every one knows is worth twenty five per cent more than the common western tanned leather; and what is a better reason and of greater importance, I can make it.
Sell my Custom Work at Much Lower Prices, and at the same time sell a better article than can be got at the shops, for this reason, you must all see is a very palpable one, that in buying my stock and in such large quantities, I of course save a very large percentage, and can sell at lower prices, and at the same time make my profits.
I want to state further that I have secured the services of Mr. BUCKENHAM, who has formerly been engaged in the manufacturing business all over the State, and who is a manufacturer in the city; and if we don't get you a better article, both in regard to style and durability, we will forfeit our money and our reputation, and I pledge you my word that I will do so.
Leather and Findings.
I have just received over $3,000 worth of the very best brands of Eastern Sole & Upper Leather, and also, a large stock of Leather, and a full assortment of MOROCCOS of every kind, which I will sell at Precisely Milwaukee and Chicago Prices.

THE ARTIST'S TRIUMPH.
A TALE OF LONDON.
BY HORATIO ALGER, JR.
[Concluded.]
The delirium which attended the early stages of Mr. Elliot's indisposition continued for some days. At length consciousness returned.
"How long have I been sick," he enquired.
"He was told."
"And what day is it now?"
"Wednesday, the fourteenth."
"Oh, that I could have held out but two days longer. I would have asked no more. In that time I could have completed my painting, and it would have been entered in competition. Fate seems to be against me."
He groaned, and covered his face with his hands.
"But," said his wife soothingly, "remember, dear Arthur, that if fate seems against us, God is always with us. He orders everything in infinite wisdom."
"But," was the hardly reconciled answer, "his ways are difficult of comprehension. The wisdom is hidden, I cannot see it."
"Yet," said his wife, full of hopeful confidence, "if we trust in him we shall not be deceived."
"But," said Arthur after a pause, "how shall we live in the meantime? I can do nothing now for our support, and much of your time is taken up in attendance upon me."
"I am richer than you think for," said Mary opening her purse and displaying the sum she had received from her visitor, much of which was untouched.
To his enquiries how she obtained it, she replied by unfolding the whole story, and indulged in the warmest encomiums on the generosity of Mr. Sedley, for the reader will remember that his name was inscribed on the card which he presented to her.
Arthur was interested in the recital, and expressed a wish to become acquainted with him. After a pause he enquired for the painting. "Let me look on it once more," said he, "perhaps I shall be better able to judge of its merits after a lapse of time."
Mary looked embarrassed. "You will excuse me," she said to her husband, "but Mr. Sedley expressed a wish to take it home with him for a few days, and I could not refuse. Doubtless he wished to exhibit it to some of his friends, and in that way it might find a purchaser."
Arthur acquiesced in this conclusion, and approved the course which Mary had adopted.
CHAPTER IV.
It was the morning of the exhibition—a clear bright morning of September, which seemed to combine all the balmy softness of summer, with none of the excessive heat. The sun shone down upon the numberless roofs of the great city, and found its way into the lanes and alleys, lighting them up for the hour with a brightness not their own. Through the little window—the only one—by which light was admitted into the room where the Elliot's lodged, the golden rays streamed in and lent their glory to the face of the sleeping artist, who had not yet awakened from the night's slumber.
There was a knock at the door. Mary opened it, and Mr. Sedley made his appearance.
"To-day," said he, "is the day of the exhibition. Will you accompany me? I have a free pass."
"But my husband," said she doubtfully. "I can not leave him."
"I have provided for that. I have brought a nurse with me who will take your place, and who will remain with you and nurse your husband. She is skillful and experienced, and you can safely trust him in her hands."
"There the sleeper awakened, and he was introduced by Mary to her husband. The latter thanked him warmly for the interest he had manifested in their welfare, and insisted on Mary's accompanying him to the exhibition.
"Though I shall have no part in it," he said, "I shall still wish to hear all about it."
Mary could no longer refuse, but dressing herself as neatly as her limited wardrobe would admit, prepared to accompany Mr. Sedley. To her surprise she found a private carriage waiting, with the usual accompaniments of a coachman and footman, of whom the latter very deferentially opened the door of the carriage, and waited for her to enter.
She began to entertain new ideas of her companion's consequence. The carriage dashed boldly through the narrow streets until it emerged from them into the more fashionable and crowded thoroughfares.
Mary found sufficient to amuse her in the splendid carriages, many of them surmounted by a coronet, all hastening in the same direction with themselves. There was an unusual number in the streets, a circumstance which was readily explained by the interest and curiosity which had been awakened by the exhibition.
At length they reached the magnificent hall in which it was to be held. The porter nodded deferentially to Mr. Sedley as he made way for him to pass.
And now they are in the room. What a magnificent collection! It represented the combined genius of the British artists, nearly all of whom had contributed to it. Mary, who, though an artist, had caught some of the spirit from her husband, gazed around her with speechless admiration.
"This is indeed grand," said she, at last; "it surpasses my utmost expectations."
"It is indeed," said Mr. Sedley; "England may well be proud of her artists. But see! Do you not recognize an old acquaintance?"
Mary looked, and to her unbounded surprise, beheld "The Transfiguration of Christ," her husband's painting, suspended from the wall. Mr. Sedley hastened to explain.
"I thought it a pity," he said, "that so fine a picture should not grace the exhibition; I accordingly hired an artist to give it the last touches, and had it brought here."
Mary thanked him with a glance full of gratitude. She looked again and beheld her husband's picture surrounded with eager admirers. Among them were the titled and the noble, and with an emotion of pride that she elicited, and the eager questionings as to the author's name.
"I do not know," she heard one say, "it is, I believe, some protégé of Sir Francis Sedley's—at all events he presented it."
"Sir Francis Sedley!" she inquired, pausing and looking into her companion's face.
"I cannot deny it," said he, smiling. "But come let us draw nearer the head of the hall—the prizes are to be announced."
They pressed forward, and the chairman of the committee arose, and after a few preliminary remarks, in which he commented on the difficulty he had experienced in the award, and congratulated himself on the splendid collection which had this day been gathered together, announced that the first prize of £500 was awarded to Arthur Elliot for his painting, entitled "The Transfiguration."
Loud shouts rang through the hall.
Mary was oppressed by the fullness of her joy.

THIS Company is one of the oldest, and among the most prudently and successfully conducted in the country. The primary object in conducting its business has been to provide perfect security under all conceivable circumstances, for the payment of its losses under its policies, and to return to the insured the surplus at stated periods, and strict economy is observed.

Every insured person is a member of the company and shares in the profits of its business, and is subject to no liability or assessments beyond his premium.

The directors are required to be peculiarly interested in the company, and they give it their personal attention; and bonds of sufficient security are given by its officers for the faithful performance of their duties.

THE ONLY EXCLUSIVE FARMERS' INSURANCE COMPANY IN THE WEST.

THE MADISON MUTUAL.

LOCATED AT MADISON, WISCONSIN.

THIS Company continues to take risks upon

1. Farm Property only, consisting of buildings and all kinds, (belonging to farmers), household furniture, grain in barns, live stock, &c., from one to five years, at lower rates than most other responsible companies.

All losses promptly paid at the office as soon as proof is made.

We believe it to be for the interest of the farmer to insure by themselves, their property being less hazardous than any other, consequently you will have no losses other than your own of the same class, and all will be on an equal footing.

Further we know that two-thirds, if not three-fourths of all the fires that occur are upon stores, taverns, mills, shops and such like property. In this company all such property is rejected positively, by letting them alone.

Turn now to your own interest, and insure in a Farmers' Company.

We have been doing business a little over three years, and we have not been obliged to assess our premium rates, and for the last fourteen months we have not had a single dollar loss, though doing a large and prosperous business, which we believe to be without a parallel in the history of insurance.

The delirium which attended the early stages of Mr. Elliot's indisposition continued for some days. At length consciousness returned.
"How long have I been sick?" he enquired.
He was told.
"And what day is it now?"
"Wednesday, the fourteenth."
"And to-morrow the exhibition will take place. Oh, that I could have held out but two days longer. I would have asked no more. In that time I could have completed my painting, and it would have been entered in competition. Fate seems to be against me."

He groaned, and covered his face with his hands.
"But," said his wife soothingly, "remember, dear Arthur, that if fate seems against us, God is always with us. He orders everything in his infinite wisdom."
"But," was the hardly reconciled answer, "his ways are difficult of comprehension. The wisdom is hidden, I cannot see it."
"Yet," said his wife full of hopeful confidence, "if we trust in him we shall not be deceived."
"But," said Arthur after a pause, "how shall we live in the meantime? I can do nothing now for our support, and much of your time is taken up in attendance upon me."

"I am richer than you think for," said Mary opening her purse and displaying the sum she had received from her visitor, much of which was untouched.
"To his enquiries how she obtained it, she replied by unfolding the whole story, and indulged in the warmest comments on the generosity of Mr. Sedley,—for the reader will remember that his name was inscribed on the card which he presented to her.
Arthur was interested in the recital, and expressed a wish to become acquainted with him. After a pause he enquired for the painting.
"Let me look on it once more," said he, "perhaps I shall be better able to judge of its merits after a lapse of time."

Mary looked embarrassed. "You will excuse me," she said to her husband, "but Mr. Sedley expressed a wish to take it home with him for a few days, and I could not refuse. Doubtless he wished to exhibit it to some of his friends, and in that way it might find a purchaser."

Arthur acquiesced in this conclusion, and approved the course which Mary had adopted.

CHAPTER IV.

It was the morning of the exhibition—a clear bright morning of September, which seemed to combine all the balmy softness of summer, with none of the excessive heat. The sun shone down upon the numberless roofs of the great city, and found its way into the lanes and alleys, lighting them up for the hour with a brightness not their own. Through the little window—the only one—by which light was admitted into the room where the Elliotts lodged, the golden rays streamed in and lent their glory to the face of the sleeping artist, who had not yet awakened from the night's slumber.

There was a knock at the door. Mary opened it, and Mr. Sedley made his appearance.
"To-day," said he, "is the day of the exhibition. Will you accompany me? I have a free pass."

"But my husband," said she doubtfully. "I can not leave him."
"I have provided for that. I have brought a nurse with me who will take your place, and who will remain with you and nurse your husband. She is skillful and experienced, and you can safely trust him in her hands."

Here the sleeper awakened, and he was introduced by Mary to her husband. The latter thanked him warmly for the interest he had manifested in their welfare, and insisted on Mary's accompanying him to the exhibition.
"Though I shall have no part in it," he said, "I shall still wish to hear all about it."

Mary could no longer refuse, but dressing herself as neatly as her limited wardrobe would admit, prepared to accompany Mr. Sedley. To her surprise she found a private carriage waiting, with the usual accompaniments of a coachman and footman, of whom the latter very deferentially opened the door of the carriage, and waited for her to enter.

She began to entertain new ideas of her companion's consequence. The carriage dashed boldly through the narrow streets until it emerged from them into the more fashionable and crowded thoroughfares.

Mary found sufficient to amuse her in the splendid carriages, many of them surrounded by a coronet, all hastening in the same direction with themselves. There was an unusual number in the streets, a circumstance which was readily explained by the interest and curiosity which had been awakened by the exhibition.

At length they reached the magnificent hall in which it was to be held. The porter nodded deferentially to Mr. Sedley as he made way for him to pass.

And now they are in the room. What a magnificent collection! It represented the combined genius of the British artists, nearly all of whom had contributed to it. Mary, who, though no artist, had caught some of the spirit from her husband, gazed around her with peevish admiration.

"This is indeed grand," said she, at last; "it surpasses my utmost expectations."
"It is indeed," said Mr. Sedley; "England may well be proud of her artists. But see! Do you not recognize an old acquaintance?"

Mary looked, and to her unbounded surprise, beheld "The Transfiguration of Christ," her husband's painting, suspended from the wall. Mr. Sedley hastened to explain.

"I thought it a pity," he said, "that so fine a picture should not grace the exhibition; I accordingly hired an artist to give it the last touches, and had it brought here."

Mary thanked him with a glance full of gratitude. She looked again and beheld her husband's picture surrounded with eager admirers. Among them were the titled and the noble, and was with an emotion of pride that she heard her expressions of admiration which he elicited, and the eager questionings as to the author's name.

"I do not know," she heard one say, "it is, believe some protoge of Sir Francis Sedley's—at all events he presented it."
"Sir Francis Sedley!" she inquired, pausing and looking into her companion's face.
"I cannot deny it," said he, smiling. "But only let us draw nearer the head of the hall—his prizes are to be announced."

They pressed forward, and the chairman of the committee arose, and after a few preliminary remarks, in which he commented on the difficulty he had experienced in the award, and congratulated himself on the splendid collection which had this day been gathered together, announced that the first prize of £200 was awarded to Arthur Elliot for his painting entitled "The Transfiguration."

And shouts rang through the hall.

Mary was oppressed by the fulness of her joy;

"Let me go into the air—I shall feel relieved," she said.
"Sir Francis kindly accompanied her.
"O sir," said she, "it is to you that we are indebted for this great joy; Poor Arthur! how he will be delighted."
"Had you not better return to him and communicate it?" asked Sir Francis.
A hackney coach was called, and Mrs. Elliot soon arrived at her lodgings.
"O, Arthur," said she, "the prize! the prize! It was all she could utter.
"Who has got it," asked the sick man eagerly, as he rose in his bed.
"It is yours! They have awarded it to you!"
She explained rapidly the circumstances with which the reader is already acquainted.
A proud flush passed over the faint cheek of the artist. "I am satisfied, I am happy!" said he.

The joy occasioned by this success acted most beneficially on the sunken energies of the sick artist. Before many weeks he recovered fully, so as to resume his art. His prize painting was sold for a great sum to an English nobleman, who was bent on adding it to his collection.
At present there is a beautiful cottage situated a few miles from London, in the suburbs. There is a pleasant garden connected with it, and it seems the abode of peace and happiness. This is the residence of the eminent artist, Arthur Elliot and his happy wife. There are few households to whom it has fallen to enjoy such unalloyed happiness as theirs. They have not forgotten the author of their prosperity. In the study of Sir Francis Sedley there hangs a beautiful picture—a gem of art—on the back of which is traced in delicate characters, "Arthur Elliot to his benefactor."

A WOMAN APPARENTLY WHITE, SUBMITTED TO SLAVERY.—FOURTH DISTRICT COURT.—A rather singular case came before this court yesterday. Some days since a woman named Pelagie was arrested as a fugitive slave, who had lived for more than twelve years in this city as a free woman. She was so nearly white that few could detect any traces of her African descent. She was arrested at the instance of a man named Raby, who claimed her as belonging to an estate of which he is heir at law.—She was conveyed to the first district guard house for safe keeping, and while there she stated to acting recorder Fillen that she was free, had never belonged to Raby, and had been in the full and unquestionable enjoyment of her freedom in this city for the above mentioned period. She also stated that she had a house furnished, which she was in the habit of letting out in rooms. About this time a lawyer appeared before the recorder and stated that the woman was born in slavery, and now belonged to a man in Mississippi. He produced a bill of sale which corroborated his assertion, and which stated that in a certain number of years she was to be set free. This being a sort of triangular fight, the woman, Raby, and the lawyer forming the corners, the recorder found himself somewhat at a loss what to do, and as Raby pressed his claim the recorder advised him to apply to one of the district courts. Accordingly he applied to the fourth district court and took a rule on acting recorder Fillen to show cause why a mandamus should not be issued compelling him to deliver up the woman. Mr. Fillen appeared before the court and stated the circumstances mentioned. Judge Reynolds decided, however, that Raby was the owner of the woman, and ordered the rule to be made absolute, and a writ of mandamus to be issued upon acting recorder Fillen for the surrender of the slave. The issuing of the writ, however, was rendered unnecessary by the declaration of Mr. Fillen that the order of the court was sufficient, and that he would at once order the woman's release. Time, however, has been given to her to prove her freedom, and also to the lawyer to prove the validity of the bill of sale.—N. O. Picayune, Sept. 6.

INSURANCE NOTING LODGE.—In reference to the formation of a Know-Nothing lodge in New-York, by protestant Irishmen, the Pilot of last week says:
"The protestant Irish have Orange or Know-Nothing lodges in all our large cities. The rules, regulations and oaths of the Know-Nothing are principally made up from those of the Orange lodges."

The Potomac Republican has not yet raised the name of Otis Hoyt for congress, and preserves an ominous silence in regard to the proceedings of the late democratic congressional convention at Mineral Point. Evidently disgusted with democracy in its present shape, it yet hesitates to quit a party which has been so long in power, and has for so long a time had the distribution of the loaves and fishes. It therefore, to make amends for its coldness towards the democratic nominee, takes to abusing the republican party with new vigor. We assure the editor that the republican party "cherishes no sectional feeling of hostility towards the south" whatever. It is the party of the union, as opposed to those who are attempting to denationalize freedom, who maintain that slavery is the natural condition of man, and who are responsible for the present slavery agitation.—Madison Journal.

COUNTERFEITER ARRESTED.—An expert counterfeiter was lately arrested at Syracuse, and plates for altering bills on sixteen different banks found in his carpet bag. The Standard says:

Among the plates were found tens on the Bank of Salina; fives on the Merchants' Bank of Syracuse; tens on the Farmers' Bank of Lansingburg, and twenties on the Southport Bank, and plates on the Bank of Bath, Waterford Bank, Mass., Mechanics and Manufacturers' Bank, Providence, R. I., Bank of Santa Clara County, Hamilton Bank, Madison county, Weybosset Bank, R. I., and Smithfield Union Bank, R. I. Besides these, there were several separate dies for altering to fives, tens and twenties. The plates were all engraved in the best style of the art, and everything about them showed the marks of a skillful workman. About $600 in counterfeit bills were also found in his possession.—among them, tens on the Farmers' Bank of Lansingburg, tens on the Lewis County Bank, and tens on the Ocean Bank.

The columns of the Washington Union are filled up with defenses of the administration, toadyism of officials, and denunciations of the Know-Nothings. It is a mystery to us "outsiders" how the editor of the Union continues to get so much knowledge respecting the numbers, character, principles and leaders of the Know-Nothings. There must be a different kind of them in and about Washington from what they are heretofore, for they are so close mouthed in their operations, if indeed, they actually exist among us at all, that all we can learn about them or their movements, is just nothing at all.

NECESSARY.—ADVANCE IN THE PRICE OF NEWSPAPERS.—The proprietors of four daily journals in Cincinnati, the Commercial, Times, Enquirer, and Columbian, have resolved to increase the price of their subscription from ten to twelve cents per week. This change they say is absolutely indispensable to meet the advanced cost of labor, paper, &c.

ROCK COUNTY REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

The electors of Rock county who are determined to support no man for office who is not positively and fully committed to the support of the principles announced in the "Republican Platform" adopted at Madison on the 13th of July last, and whose personal character, political associations and private conduct, do not afford a guarantee that he is reliable, are invited to meet in their respective townships or wards at the place of holding the last township ward election, on Tuesday, 30th day of October next, at 2 o'clock P. M. for the purpose of affecting a thorough organization of the Republican party in their towns or wards, and of appointing delegates to a county convention hereby called at the Court House in Janesville, on THURSDAY, the 12th day of October next, at 2 o'clock P. 17TH SENATORIAL DISTRICT CONVENTION.

At the same time and place above designated in the respective towns and wards for meetings, to choose delegates to the county convention, the Republican electors of the wards of the city of Janesville, and of the towns in this county comprised in the 17th senatorial district, are requested to select an equal number of delegates to which they are entitled under the above appointment in the county convention, to represent them in a senatorial convention hereby called at the Court House in Janesville, on THURSDAY the 12th day of October next at 11 o'clock, A. M., to nominate a candidate for senator.

By order of the County Committee.

MR. DOUGLAS AT GENEVA.—Douglas undertook to "vindicate himself" again, at Geneva, Ill., last Wednesday, but with no better success than he has met at other places. The number that assembled to hear him was from 1,500 to 2,000, fifty of whom are reported to have been Nebraska men. He was listened to quietly until he began to make statements for which proof was requested by the audience, and in his inability to produce such proof, he began, as on former occasions, to lose his temper and grow insolent. After some interruption, however, he was enabled to conclude his speech, which occupied about two hours' time. The meeting then appointed a chairman and secretary, and Ichabod Coddling was called upon the stand to make a reply. Douglas having no relish for this immediately withdrew, taking with him twenty-five of his friends, a portion of whom afterwards returned. After this, resolutions were passed with but one dissenting voice, against the provisions of the Nebraska bill repealing the compromise of 1820, condemning the members of congress who voted for the bill, and declaring that Douglas was unworthy to speak to a free people. We trust that nothing like an enforcement of the idea contained in the last resolution will take place, as Douglas at present seems to be materially aiding the anti-Nebraska movement.

THE WHITEWATER GAZETTE.—This paper has recently changed hands, abandoned its neutrality in politics and ardently espoused the republican cause. It gives promise of being a useful and efficient worker in that cause.

Farwell & Bro.'s Soda Fountain is in fine order, and ready to give its cooling draughts during the Indian summer.

Owing to the early hour we go to press, we are unable to give an account of Capt. Geo. S. Dodge's lecture, before the Collegiate Institute, in this issue. To-morrow, we shall pay him our respects.

NEW YORK WHIG NOMINATIONS.—The whigs of New York held their state convention at Syracuse, on Wednesday, and nominated with great unanimity, the following ticket: for Governor, Myron H. Clark, of Ontario; Lt. Governor, A. J. Raymond, of N. Y.; Canal Commissioner, H. Fitzgibbon, of Oswego; State Prison Inspector, N. Browne, of Delaware. Very emphatic and decided anti-Nebraska resolutions were adopted, and the convention adjourned, as it met and acted, in entire harmony.

STATE TAXES.—The state board of equalization were in session at the capitol, yesterday and to-day, and have finally completed their labors, by fixing the state tax at 3 to 100 mills on the dollar. The tax last year was 6 mills on the dollar, but owing to the increase of taxable property the diminished ratio will furnish in the aggregate a much larger amount than last year.—Madison Argus.

SUMMARY WORK.—A public meeting of the citizens of Huntsville, Texas, held on the 29th ult., resolved that convicts who had served out their time in the penitentiary, or who may hereafter do so, shall not remain in that town. A standing committee was appointed to notify all such persons, and in default of their leaving the place in 24 hours after such notice to lynch them.

"CONSTITUTIONAL CONSCIENCE."—The Memphis Eagle and Enquirer does not understand how it is that President Pierce voted the bill donating a portion of the public domain for the benefit of the indigent insane persons of the United States, on the ground of constitutional obstacles, and yet signed the bill donating the navy yard property at Memphis, upon which the government has spent thousands of dollars, to that city.

KIDNAPPERS ESCAPED.—The three hyenas who attempted to kidnap and murder a colored man at Chicago, and had been indicted for the deed, have escaped by a trick of the U. S. Dist. Atty Hoyne and Sheriff Bradley. They got out a writ of habeas corpus, from chief justice Treat, at Springfield, commanding the sheriff to bring the prisoners before him—200 miles distant—in 30 hours, and served it when the witnesses and attorneys of the colored man were absent, and, of course, were taken beyond the reach of justice.

The Buffalo Republic responds to a suggestion of the Albany Atlas, that the former might "see" something favorable to freedom in the liberty accorded by congress to Kansas and Nebraska to accept or reject slavery—as follows:

"The Republic sees nothing of the kind. It sees that the repeal of the Missouri restriction opened the territories of Kansas and Nebraska to slavery, and that the measure has awakened a feeling in the free states which may, through the efficient aid of emigrant societies, result unapologetically to the cause of freedom. It sees nothing of popular sovereignty in the Nebraska law, nor anything different from other territorial laws, save a wanton violation of a solemn compact which, in its judgment, should have met the unqualified disapprobation of the democratic state convention, whatever opinions may have prevailed there in regard to the restoration of the Missouri clause."

NEW FREIGHT DEPOT.—The new freight depot which the Central railroad company are putting up on Ohio street, between Michigan and Chicago streets, will be the largest building of the kind in the United States, and perhaps in the world. It fronts 600 feet on Ohio street and 420 feet on the dock, with a depth at the west end of 175 and at the east end of 163 feet, covering two acres of ground. It is a substantial brick structure, the roof being supported by large pillars. Opening upon the dock are eleven large doors for the receipt and transmission of freight and on Ohio street thirteen, where also is the main entrance into which lead three railway tracks. One track runs directly through the building to the dock.—Buffalo Democracy.

HOUSEHOLD.—Mrs. Fitzgerald, an industrious, reputable widow, in New York, who earned a precarious living by folding books, when she could obtain employment, became discouraged and committed suicide by taking laudanum, having first administered a fatal dose to her son, a boy eight years old.

GRANT COUNTY LANDS FOR 75 CENTS AN ACRE.—The Grant County Herald calls attention to the fact that the government lands in that county, having been 19 years in market, can be had for 75 cents per acre, under the recent graduation bill. Applications must be made personally at the office in Mineral Point.

REQUISITION FOR THE KIDNAPPERS.—We understand that measures have been taken to get a requisition upon the governor of Missouri for the kidnapers, who were released by justice Treat last Thursday. When they get into our county jail again, they will not escape so easily as they have done.—Chicago Tribune, Saturday.

STOCK GOING UP.—One news item in our columns this morning, is that several brokers in New York city have "filled" because of a sudden "rise" in Erie railroad stock. Wall street is a strange place. Whether stocks rise or fall, somebody must break.

SOUTHERN WISCONSIN RAILWAY.—E. D. Clinton writes that on Monday he closed his work at Deaneur, Green county, Wis., with a good bona-fide subscription to the road of four hundred and eighty-five thousand nine hundred dollars.—Wisconsin.

FARMERS' & MILLERS' BANK.—This institution has changed hands—the original proprietors having sold, out to some of our leading business men. Yesterday the new directors elected Edward D. Holtan, president, John Lockwood, vice-president, and H. H. Camp, cashier. Mr. Camp held the same office under the former direction.—Wis.

VERMONT.—The Vermont Journal has a classification of the senate and house of representatives, which gives the whigs 21 senators, the free soilers 7, and the democrats 2. Of the 225 representatives known to have been chosen, 120 are whigs, 48 free soilers, and 51 democrats.

The following proposed amendments to the Constitution of the state are to be submitted to the people at said election, to wit:

Amendment Section 1 of Article 4, as to read as follows: The members of assembly shall be chosen biennially, by single districts, on the Tuesday next succeeding the first Monday of November, by the qualified electors of the county, precinct, town or ward lines, to consist of contiguous territory, and to be in as compact a form as practicable.

Amend last clause of Section 5 of same Article, as to read as follows: "The members of the assembly shall be chosen in regular series. The senators chosen in the present odd numbered districts, in the year 1851, shall hold their offices until the last day of December 1852. The senators chosen by the present even numbered districts, in the year 1851, shall hold their offices until the last day of December, 1853. Thereafter senators shall be chosen for the term of four years, but the legislature at any new appointment, shall so classify the senators to be elected from any additional territory, that each series shall hold their offices for a term of office of all senators elected from even numbered districts, shall expire at the same time, and the term of office of all those elected from odd numbered districts, shall expire at the same time."

Amend Section 1 of Article 4, as to read as follows: "The legislature shall meet at the seat of government once in two years, and not oftener, unless convened by the governor."

Amend Section 1 of Article 4, as to read as follows: "The above named amendments by depositing a ballot containing the following words: 'For amendment to section four,' or 'against amendment to section four,' and for or against the second of the above named amendments by depositing a ballot containing the words, 'For amendment to section five,' and 'against amendment to section five,' and for or against the third of the above amendments by depositing a ballot containing the words, 'For amendment to section eleven,' or 'against amendment to section eleven,' and for or against any one or more of said amendments shall be on a ballot, and to be deposited in a separate box prepared for the purpose. The qualification of the electors to be the same, and the votes canvassed and returned in the same manner as in elections for state officers."

FARM FOR SALE.

The delirium which attended the early stages of Mr. Elliot's indisposition continued for some days. At length consciousness returned.
"How long have I been sick?" he enquired.
He was told.
"And what day is it now?"
"Wednesday, the fourteenth."
"And to-morrow the exhibition will take place. Oh, that I could have held out but two days longer. I would have asked no more. In that time I could have completed my painting, and it would have been entered in competition. Fate seems to be against me."
He groaned, and covered his face with his hands.

"But," said his wife soothingly, "remember, dear Arthur, that if fate seems against us, God is always with us. He orders everything in his infinite wisdom."

"But," was the hardly reconciled answer, "his ways are difficult of comprehension. The wisdom is hidden, I cannot see it."
"Yet," said his wife full of hopeful confidence, "if we trust in him we shall not be deceived."
"But," said Arthur after a pause, "how shall we live in the meantime? I can do nothing now for our support, and much of your time is taken up in attendance upon me."

"I am richer than you think for," said Mary opening her purse and displaying the sum she had received from her visitor, much of which was untouched.

To his enquiries how she obtained it, she replied by unfolding the whole story, and indulged in the warmest comments on the generosity of Mr. Sedley, for the reader will remember that his name was inscribed on the card which he presented to her.

Arthur was interested in the recital, and expressed a wish to become acquainted with him. After a pause he enquired for the painting.
"Let me look on it once more," said he, "perhaps I shall be better able to judge of its merits after a lapse of time."

Mary looked embarrassed. "You will excuse me," she said to her husband, "but Mr. Sedley expressed a wish to take it home with him for a few days, and I could not refuse. Doubtless he wished to exhibit it to some of his friends, and in that way it might find a purchaser."

Arthur acquiesced in this conclusion, and approved the course which Mary had adopted.

CHAPTER IV.

It was the morning of the exhibition—a clear bright morning of September, which seemed to combine all the balmy softness of summer, with none of the excessive heat. The sun shone down upon the numberless roofs of the great city, and found its way into the lanes and alleys, lighting them up for the hour with a brightness not their own. Through the little window—the only one—by which light was admitted into the room where the Elliotts lodged, the golden rays streamed in and lent their glory to the face of the sleeping artist, who had not yet awakened from the night's slumber.

There was a knock at the door. Mary opened it, and Mr. Sedley made his appearance.

"To-day," said he, "is the day of the exhibition. Will you accompany me? I have a free pass."

"But my husband," said she doubtfully. "I can not leave him."

"I have provided for that. I have brought a nurse with me who will take your place, and who will remain with you and nurse your husband. She is skillful and experienced, and you can safely trust him in her hands."

Here the sleeper awakened, and he was introduced by Mary to her husband. The latter thanked him warmly for the interest he had manifested in their welfare, and insisted on Mary's accompanying him to the exhibition.

"Though I shall have no part in it," he said, "I shall still wish to hear all about it."

Mary could no longer refuse, but dressing herself as neatly as her limited wardrobe would admit, prepared to accompany Mr. Sedley. To her surprise she found a private carriage waiting, with the usual accompaniments of a coachman and footman, of whom the latter very deferentially opened the door of the carriage, and waited for her to enter.

She began to entertain new ideas of her companion's consequence. The carriage dashed boldly through the narrow streets until it emerged from them into the more fashionable and crowded thoroughfares.

Mary found sufficient to amuse her in the splendid carriages, many of them surrounded by a coronet, all hastening in the same direction with themselves. There was an unusual number in the streets, a circumstance which was readily explained by the interest and curiosity which had been awakened by the exhibition.

At length they reached the magnificent hall in which it was to be held. The porter nodded deferentially to Mr. Sedley as he made way for him to pass.

And now they are in the room. What a magnificent collection! It represented the combined genius of the British artists, nearly all of whom had contributed to it. Mary, who, though no artist, had caught some of the spirit from her husband, gazed around her with peevish admiration.

"This is indeed grand," said she, at last; "it surpasses my utmost expectations."

"It is indeed," said Mr. Sedley; "England may well be proud of her artists. But see! Do you not recognize an old acquaintance?"

Mary looked, and to her unbounded surprise, beheld "The Transfiguration of Christ," her husband's painting, suspended from the wall. Mr. Sedley hastened to explain.

"I thought it a pity," he said, "that so fine a picture should not grace the exhibition; I accordingly hired an artist to give it the last touches, and had it brought here."

Mary thanked him with a glance full of gratitude. She looked again and beheld her husband's picture surrounded with eager admirers. Among them were the titled and the noble, and was with an emotion of pride that she heard her expressions of admiration which he elicited, and the eager questionings as to the author's name.

"I do not know," she heard one say, "it is, believe some protoge of Sir Francis Sedley's—at all events he presented it."

"Sir Francis Sedley?" he inquired, pausing and looking into her companion's face.

"I cannot deny it," said he, smiling. "But oh! let us draw nearer the head of the hall—the prizes are to be announced."

They pressed forward, and the chairman of the committee arose, and after a few preliminary remarks, in which he commented on the difficulty he had experienced in the award, and congratulated himself on the splendid collection which had this day been gathered together, announced that the first prize of £200 was awarded to Arthur Elliot for his painting entitled "The Transfiguration."

And shouts rang through the hall.

Mary was oppressed by the fulness of her joy.

"Let me go into the air—I shall feel relieved," she said.
"Sir Francis kindly accompanied her."
"O sir," said she, "it is to you that we are indebted for this great joy; Poor Arthur! how he will be delighted."
"Had you not better return to him and communicate it?" asked Sir Francis.
A hackney coach was called, and Mrs. Elliot soon arrived at her lodgings.
"O, Arthur," said she, "the prize! the prize! It was all she could utter."
"Who has got it?" asked the sick man eagerly, as he rose in his bed.
"It is yours! They have awarded it to you!"
She explained rapidly the circumstances with which the reader is already acquainted.
A proud flush passed over the faint cheek of the artist. "I am satisfied, I am happy!" said he.

The joy occasioned by this success acted most beneficially on the sunken energies of the sick artist. Before many weeks he recovered fully, so as to resume his art. His prize painting was sold for a great sum to an English nobleman, who was bent on adding it to his collection.

At present there is a beautiful cottage situated a few miles from London, in the suburbs. There is a pleasant garden connected with it, and it seems the abode of peace and happiness. This is the residence of the eminent artist, Arthur Elliot and his happy wife. There are few households to whom it has fallen to enjoy such unalloyed happiness as theirs. They have not forgotten the author of their prosperity. In the study of Sir Francis Sedley there hangs a beautiful picture—a gem of art—on the back of which is traced in delicate characters, "Arthur Elliot to his benefactor."

A WOMAN APPARENTLY WHITE, SUBMITTED TO SLAVERY.—FOURTH DISTRICT COURT.—A rather singular case came before this court yesterday. Some days since a woman named Pelagie was arrested as a fugitive slave, who had lived for more than twelve years in this city as a free woman. She was so nearly white that few could detect any traces of her African descent. She was arrested at the instance of a man named Raby, who claimed her as belonging to an estate of which he is heir at law.

She was conveyed to the first district guard house for safe keeping, and while there she stated to acting recorder Fillen that she was free, had never belonged to Raby, and had been in the full and unquestionable enjoyment of her freedom in this city for the above mentioned period. She also stated that she had a house furnished, which she was in the habit of letting out in rooms. About this time a lawyer appeared before the recorder and stated that the woman was born in slavery, and now belonged to a man in Mississippi. He produced a bill of sale which corroborated his assertion, and which stated that in a certain number of years she was to be set free. This being a sort of triangular fight, the woman, Raby, and the lawyer forming the corners, the recorder found himself somewhat at a loss what to do, and as Raby pressed his claim the recorder advised him to apply to one of the district courts. Accordingly he applied to the fourth district court and took a rule on acting recorder Fillen to show cause why a mandamus should not be issued compelling him to deliver up the woman. Mr. Fillen appeared before the court and stated the circumstances mentioned. Judge Reynolds decided, however, that Raby was the owner of the woman, and ordered the rule to be made absolute, and a writ of mandamus to be issued upon acting recorder Fillen for the surrender of the slave. The issuing of the writ, however, was rendered unnecessary by the declaration of Mr. Fillen that the order of the court was sufficient, and that he would at once order the woman's release. Time, however, has been given to her to prove her freedom, and also to the lawyer to prove the validity of the bill of sale.—N. O. Picayune, Sept. 6.

INSURANCE NOTING LODGE.—In reference to the formation of a Know-Nothing lodge in New-York, by protestant Irishmen, the Pilot of last week says:

"The protestant Irish have Orange or Know-Nothing lodges in all our large cities. The rules, regulations and oaths of the Know-Nothing are principally made up from those of the Orange lodges."

The Potomac Republican has not yet raised the name of Otis Hoyt for congress, and preserves an ominous silence in regard to the proceedings of the late democratic congressional convention at Mineral Point. Evidently disgusted with democracy in its present shape, it yet hesitates to quit a party which has been so long in power, and has for so long a time had the distribution of the loaves and fishes. It therefore, to make amends for its coldness towards the democratic nominee, takes to abusing the republican party with new vigor. We assure the editor that the republican party "cherishes no sectional feeling of hostility towards the south" whatever. It is the party of the union, as opposed to those who are attempting to denationalize freedom, who maintain that slavery is the natural condition of man, and who are responsible for the present slavery agitation.—Madison Journal.

COUNTERFEITER ARRESTED.—An expert counterfeiter was lately arrested at Syracuse, and plates for altering bills on sixteen different banks found in his carpet bag. The Standard says:

Among the plates were found tens on the Bank of Salina; fives on the Merchants' Bank of Syracuse; tens on the Farmers' Bank of Lansingburg; and twenties on the Southport Bank, and plates on the Bank of Bath, Waterford Bank, Mass., Mechanics and Manufacturers' Bank, Providence, R. I., Bank of Santa Clara County, Hamilton Bank, Madison county, Weybosset Bank, R. I., and Smithfield Union Bank, R. I. Besides these, there were several separate dies for altering to fives, tens and twenties.

The plates were all engraved in the best style of the art, and everything about them showed the marks of a skillful workman. About $600 in counterfeit bills were also found in his possession.—among them, tens on the Farmers' Bank of Lansingburg, tens on the Lewis County Bank, and tens on the Ocean Bank.

The columns of the Washington Union are filled up with defenses of the administration, towlism of officials, and denunciations of the Know-Nothings. It is a mystery to us "outsiders" how the editor of the Union continues to get so much knowledge respecting the numbers, character, principles and leaders of the Know-Nothings. There must be a different kind of them in and about Washington from what they are heretofore, for they are so close mouthed in their operations, if indeed, they actually exist among us at all, that all we can learn about them or their movements, is just nothing at all.

NECESSARY.—ADVANCE IN THE PRICE OF NEWSPAPERS.—The proprietors of four daily journals in Cincinnati, the Commercial, Times, Enquirer, and Columbian, have resolved to increase the price of their subscription from ten to twelve cents per week. This change they say is absolutely indispensable to meet the advanced cost of labor, paper, &c.

The electors of Rock county who are determined to support no man for office who is not positively and fully committed to the support of the principles announced in the "Republican Platform" adopted at Madison on the 13th of July last, and whose personal character, political associations and private conduct, do not afford a guarantee that he is reliable, are invited to meet in their respective townships or wards at the place of holding the last township ward election, on Tuesday, 30th day of October next, at 2 o'clock P. 17th SENATORIAL DISTRICT CONVENTION.

At the same time and place above designated in the respective towns and wards for meetings, to choose delegates to the county convention, the Republican electors of the wards of the city of Janesville, and of the towns in this county comprised in the 17th senatorial district, are requested to select an equal number of delegates to which they are entitled under the above appointment in the county convention, to represent them in a senatorial convention hereby called at the Court House in Janesville, on THURSDAY the 12th day of October next at 11 o'clock, A. M., to nominate a candidate for senator.

By order of the County Committee.

MR. DOUGLAS AT GENEVA.—Douglas undertook to "vindicate himself" again, at Geneva, Ill., last Wednesday, but with no better success than he has met at other places. The number that assembled to hear him was from 1,500 to 2,000, fifty of whom are reported to have been Nebraska men. He was listened to quietly until he began to make statements for which proof was requested by the audience, and in his inability to produce such proof, he began, as on former occasions, to lose his temper and grow insolent. After some interruption, however, he was enabled to conclude his speech, which occupied about two hours' time. The meeting then appointed a chairman and secretary, and Ichabod Coddling was called upon the stand to make a reply. Douglas having no relish for this immediately withdrew, taking with him twenty-five of his friends, a portion of whom afterwards returned. After this, resolutions were passed with but one dissenting voice, against the provisions of the Nebraska bill repealing the compromise of 1820, condemning the members of congress who voted for the bill, and declaring that Douglas was unworthy to speak to a free people. We trust that nothing like an enforcement of the idea contained in the last resolution will take place, as Douglas at present seems to be materially aiding the anti-Nebraska movement.

THE WHITEWATER GAZETTE.—This paper has recently changed hands, abandoned its neutrality in politics and ardently espoused the republican cause. It gives promise of being a useful and efficient worker in that cause.

Farwell & Bro.'s Soda Fountain is in fine order, and ready to give its cooling draughts during the Indian summer.

Owing to the early hour we go to press, we are unable to give an account of Capt. Geo. S. Dodge's lecture, before the Collegiate Institute, in this issue. To-morrow, we shall pay him our respects.

NEW YORK WHIG NOMINATIONS.—The whigs of New York held their state convention at Syracuse, on Wednesday, and nominated with great unanimity, the following ticket: for Governor, Myron H. Clark, of Ontario; Lt. Governor, A. J. Raymond, of N. Y.; Canal Commissioner, H. Fitzgibbon, of Oswego; State Prison Inspector, N. Browne, of Delaware. Very emphatic and decided anti-Nebraska resolutions were adopted, and the convention adjourned, as it met and acted, in entire harmony.

STATE TAXES.—The state board of equalization were in session at the capitol, yesterday and to-day, and have finally completed their labors, by fixing the state tax at 3 to 100 mills on the dollar. The tax last year was 6 mills on the dollar, but owing to the increase of taxable property the diminished ratio will furnish in the aggregate a much larger amount than last year.—Madison Argus.

SUMMARY WORK.—A public meeting of the citizens of Huntsville, Texas, held on the 29th ult., resolved that convicts who had served out their time in the penitentiary, or who may hereafter do so, shall not remain in that town. A standing committee was appointed to notify all such persons, and in default of their leaving the place in 24 hours after such notice to lynch them.

"CONSTITUTIONAL CONSCIENCE."—The Memphis Eagle and Enquirer does not understand how it is that President Pierce voted the bill donating a portion of the public domain for the benefit of the indigent insane persons of the United States, on the ground of constitutional obstacles, and yet signed the bill donating the navy yard property at Memphis, upon which the government has spent thousands of dollars, to that city.

KIDNAPPERS ESCAPED.—The three hyenas who attempted to kidnap and murder a colored man at Chicago, and had been indicted for the deed, have escaped by a trick of the U. S. Dist. Atty Hoyne and Sheriff Bradley. They got out a writ of habeas corpus, from chief justice Treat, at Springfield, commanding the sheriff to bring the prisoners before him—200 miles distant—in 30 hours, and served it when the witnesses and attorneys of the colored man were absent, and, of course, were taken beyond the reach of justice.

The Buffalo Republic responds to a suggestion of the Albany Atlas, that the former might "see" something favorable to freedom in the liberty accorded by congress to Kansas and Nebraska to accept or reject slavery—as follows:

"The Republic sees nothing of the kind. It sees that the repeal of the Missouri restriction opened the territories of Kansas and Nebraska to slavery, and that the measure has awakened a feeling in the free states which may, through the efficient aid of emigrant societies, result unapologetically to the cause of freedom. It sees nothing of popular sovereignty in the Nebraska law, nor anything different from other territorial laws, save a wanton violation of a solemn compact which, in its judgment, should have met the unqualified disapprobation of the democratic state convention, whatever opinions may have prevailed there in regard to the restoration of the Missouri clause."

NEW FREIGHT DEPOT.—The new freight depot which the Central railroad company are putting up on Ohio street, between Michigan and Chicago streets, will be the largest building of the kind in the United States, and perhaps in the world. It fronts 600 feet on Ohio street and 420 feet on the dock, with a depth at the west end of 175 and at the east end of 163 feet, covering two acres of ground. It is a substantial brick structure, the roof being supported by large pillars. Opening upon the dock are eleven large doors for the receipt and transmission of freight and on Ohio street thirteen, where also is the main entrance into which lead three railway tracks. One track runs directly through the building to the dock.—Buffalo Democracy.

HOUSEHOLD.—Mrs. Fitzgerald, an industrious, reputable widow, in New York, who earned a precarious living by folding books, when she could obtain employment, became discouraged and committed suicide by taking laudanum, having first administered a fatal dose to her son, a boy eight years old.

GRANT COUNTY LANDS FOR 75 CENTS AN ACRE.—The Grant County Herald calls attention to the fact that the government lands in that county, having been 19 years in market, can be had for 75 cents per acre, under the recent graduation bill. Applications must be made personally at the office in Mineral Point.

REQUISITION FOR THE KIDNAPPERS.—We understand that measures have been taken to get a requisition upon the governor of Missouri for the kidnapers, who were released by justice Treat last Thursday. When they get into our county jail again, they will not escape so easily as they have done.—Chicago Tribune, Saturday.

STOCK GOING UP.—One news item in our columns this morning, is that several brokers in New York city have "filled" because of a sudden "rise" in Erie railroad stock. Wall street is a strange place. Whether stocks rise or fall, somebody must break.

SOUTHERN WISCONSIN RAILWAY.—E. D. Clinton writes that on Monday he closed his work at Deaneur, Green county, Wis., with a good bona-fide subscription to the road of four hundred and eighty-five thousand nine hundred dollars.—Wisconsin.

FARMERS' & MILLERS' BANK.—This institution has changed hands—the original proprietors having sold, out to some of our leading business men. Yesterday the new directors elected Edward D. Holton, president, John Lockwood, vice-president, and H. H. Camp, cashier. Mr. Camp held the same office under the former direction.—Wis.

VERMONT.—The Vermont Journal has a classification of the senate and house of representatives, which gives the whigs 21 senators, the free soilers 7, and the democrats 2. Of the 225 representatives known to have been chosen, 120 are whigs, 43 free soilers, and 51 democrats.

NEW GOODS!
$15,000 Worth of
BOOTS AND SHOES
JUST RECEIVED AT THE
Wisconsin Boot & Shoe Store.

I am now receiving one of the largest and finest stocks of Boots and Shoes that I have ever before brought to Janesville, and what is finer than all the rest, I can sell them at lower prices than I have ever sold before, notwithstanding the great advance in the Eastern Market. My assortment of

Ladies Fine Shoes,
In particular, I have no hesitation in saying cannot be equalled in the State, both for style and durability, becoming a great desideratum for many of the more enterprising event agents, self, with the understanding at all times, that if they do not come up to the warrant, they shall be deemed free of charge.

GENTLEMAN'S WEAR.

In this line I know beyond a doubt, that I can show you a finer assortment and at better prices by twenty-five per cent than can be found at any of the shops of the city, and about town. I want it distinctly understood that I will sell you SUITS OF VERY FINE TRADEY WHOLESTRADE, and that I Buy More and know more about the trade, than the whole pile of petty dealers put together. And I know also that I can make no object but to Every Firmness and Quality of the goods, and to Buy and Sell the Trade in Jeuxville to buy their Boots and Shoes of me for the more I sell the smaller profits I can sell.

Manufacturing.

I want to say a few words to you in regard to my Manufacturing Department, to wit: That I am now engaged more extensively in the manufacturing business, and probably am selling more custom work than all the other manufacturers put together. I have Twenty-four Trunks that I use here Stock, being chiefly of Eastern manufacture, which every one knows is worth twenty-five per cent more than the common western hand leather; and that is a better reason and of greater importance, I say.

Sell my Custom Work at Much Lower Prices, and at the same time sell you a better article than you can get at the shops, for this reason, which you must all see is a very palpable one, that in buying my stock east and in such large quantities, I of course save in very large percent, and thereby can sell at lower prices and at the same time thank my friends.

I am glad to hear that I have secured the services of Mr. Breckinridge, who has formerly been engaged in the manufacturing business on the west side of the River, and who is known by every one to be the best manufacturer in the city; and if we don't get your order, we will not lose a customer. I have the ability, we will forgo our money and our reputation, and I pledge you my word that this is no small forgo!

Leather and Findings.

I have just received over $3,000 worth of the very best quality of LEATHERS, SADDLERY, TRUNKS, and PHILADELPHIA KIT and FINEST CUP BEKINS, together with a full assortment of 200,000 of every kind, which I will sell at Precisely Milwaukee and Chicago Prices.

I have constantly on hand, also, a large assortment of all kinds of BINDING, LEATH, BOOTS, TRUNKS, CRUMPS, and all the various articles that are made of leather.

I request the attention of manufacturers in foreign as well as in the country to my stock, as I think I can make it an object for you to buy of me. At least, I can recommend a much superior article to that which you get of the peddlers.

TO THE LADIES.

I would say that I am under very great obligation for the many good words about me, and for procuring your understandings from me; and I now publicly promise and swear that I will make every one of you who may be desired to the same a present of a handsome pair of BAGS, when I shall have closed up my store.

to get up to order any style of work you wish, at low rates. Yours respectfully,
